   Someone once said that religion is true for the masses, false for the educated ones, and useful for the rulers of a society. Periodically a new empire gets established by granting its populace the opportunity to have a stake in society. However, the empire's citizens have to work extremely hard to attain social acceptance and financial security. But, after the governing bully rulers of the empire have established a stronghold over the empire's thriving economy, they start to take away the small measure of social influence and economic affluence that the empire's citizens have obtained. This is achieved by (1) no longer providing humanitarian services to the impoverished struggling poor class and (2) abandoning the gainfully employed working class by outsourcing their jobs to foreign nations and by globalizing the consumer market and (3) by overriding the empire's democratic government with the dictatorship of the Bully Culture regime. Why don't the people rebel? One reason is because of the clergy bully. The clergy bully is like a wolf in sheep's clothing that pulls the wool over his congregation's eyes. He uses religion as a crutch to pursue his own blind, deaf, and dumb avarice by, in the name of religion, influencing people NOT to protest the loss of their hard earned goodies nor resist the removal of their hard won civil rights.

They question the ir own blind, deaf, and dumb faith and trust in the clerg y bully's religious hypocrisy. They complain about their undeserved lot in life that they know the Bully Culture h as yoked them with it. The clergy bully swears that God w ill punish them with eternal damnation unless and until t hey repent. And since no one knows what lies in the unkno wn afterlife — as no one has come back to tell about it — such is enough to mesmerize even the most steadfast disb eliever into surrendering his money over to the clergy bu lly's ostentatious lifestyle so that God will not curse h im.

</ div> However, the clergy bully's v ery own Bible tells us that heaven and hell do not lie in some other dimension. HEAVEN AND HELL EXIST RIGHT HERE A ND RIGHT NOW ON EARTH. The word Gan Eden appears many tim es in the book of Genesis. The word Gan Eden literally me ans Garden of Paradise otherwise known as Heaven. Adam an d Eve, who were the two prototype humans that God created on the sixth day of Creation, frolicked in Gan Eden and ate the fruits from its trees for the sheer pleasure of i t. That is, until God presented them with an opportunity to exercise their God given freedom of choice. God told A dam and Eve not to eat of the fruit that grew upon one tr ee. That tree stood in the midst of the Garden of Paradis e and was called the Tree of Life. The Tree of Life was t he source by which all of Creation originated. It was the embodiment of God's Natural Order of Things.
<fo nt face="'Times New Roman', Times, serif" color="#FFFFFF" class="size18 TimesRoman18">
<font face="'Times Ne w Roman', Times, serif" color="#FFFFFF" class="size18 Tim

esRoman18"> As the Biblical allegory goes, Adam and Eve swallowed the forbidden fruit. And that is how all hell broke loose. By disobeying God's commandment, Adam and Eve violated God's Natural Order of Things. This changed them and the earth, forever. The Tree of Life became the Tree of Knowledge of good and evil to them. Their immortal bodies of pure light energy transformed into mortal bodies of flesh matter. From now on, Adam and Eve had to eat food out of necessity. Adam and Eve's sin changed the state of the Earth as well. It was no longer a Garden of Paradise. Its trees, which grew fruit all year round, now only bore fruit seasonally. And so Adam was cursed with, "You will eat by the sweat of your brow", for Adam had to gather food for himself and his mate that was sometimes abundant and sometimes scarce.

 Many generations passed before Adam and Eve's descendants figured out how to hunt and farm. This made food gathering less laborious and more reliable. After many more generations the advent industrialization and technology made food sources readily available to all people. Nevertheless, many people go hungry as a result of the earth's food supply being exploited for monetary profit. For although, Adam and Eve became needy for food after they partook of the forbidden fruit; the children of Adam and Eve have become greedy with regard to food for they continue to partake of the fruit from the Tree of Knowledge of good and evil. The moral of this biblical story about Adam and Eve is that, whenever and wherever people exercise their God given freedom of choice to either respect or to disrespect God's Natural Order of Things, they make either heaven or hell right here and right now on planet Earth.

"YOU REAP WHAT YOU SOW"

 Another religious myth that the clergy bully uses in order to monopolize peoples' money is, You Reap What You Sow". If one will put one's faith and trust in the Lord by taking the initiative to donate whatever one can to religious causes God will help one become successful in one's life. You can turn on the Christian channel on television and watch and listen to the Priest say, "Give just one dollar to the church and you may glean hundreds of dollars from the Lord". The Christians believe that if one sows one seed one will reap many more fold of God's harvest. The Jews believe in something similar. In the Jewish Si ddur — prayer book — it says that if one observes Miser, which is the donating of one tenth of one's annual earnings to Jewish charity organizations, God will make one prosperous by allowing both the Principle and the Interest of whatever a Jew is supposed to earn in his afterlife to be bestowed upon him in this life.

   However, while in potential one may reap what one sows, in actuality it may not come to fruition. Just ask any farmer and he will tell you that feast or famine is determined by variables that lie beyond the farmer's control, such as the unforeseeable weather. And just as the weather can be fraught with all sorts of elements that thwart crop growth, there are people in this world that will interfere with your life goals. Thusly, even if you do what is required of you, you may not get what is coming to you. As a for instance, the talented, hard working, risk taking individuals who do what they are supposed to do, more often than not, are unable to make their dreams come true. This is due to the fact that the Bully Culture is running interference with their plans. The bully(s) — enforcers of the Bully Culture, bystander(s) — uncaring conformed-asses of the Bully Culture, and victim(s) — wannabe lick-butt-kick-butts of the Bully Culture get in the way. Such an entourage sabotages the ones who are giving it their all by preventing them from being a part of the social scene so that a) no one notices their works or b) one takes credit for their works.

 When humanoid obstacles prevent an individual from manifesting his destiny, the clergy bully will claim that all one has to do is believe in the Lord and think positively and the cosmos will open up to one like a, "Let's make a deal" door. Well, many sincere people have done just that. But no matter how genuine their prayers are to God for assistance, and no matter how devoted they are to doing God's works, they do not reap what they sow. Such is not due to God being unwilling to make it so. Such is due to people choosing to refuse to give one an opportunity to make it so. God does hear and God does listen to prayer. But God does not intervene. For to do so is to interfere with our God given freedom of choice, which defines who and what we are. God does not answer prayers for material requests for material things are corporeal. Thusly, there are only so many to go around in any given time and any given place. Hence, people have to compete for them. So in order for the one to have, the other has to have not. The only prayers that God fulfills are those that are of a spiritual nature. Those who pray for enlightenment with a pure heart will be granted a clear mind, which is religiously ref erred to as a state of prophecy and scientifically regarded as a sixth sense. Spiritual affairs are not limited by space or time. Therefore, as many people as there are who desire to achieve enlightenment, will be as many people as there are to attain it. And so, contrary to the clergy bully's preaching, God does not give special treatment to one group of people or perform miracles on any one person's behalf. For in order for God to allow people to exercise their freedom of choice to acquire what it is they want and need for themselves, God must be impartial to all by not being partial to any.

 Now since it is God's will that we live in a world wherein people have the liberty to make their own decisions, the world has both decent and amoral and unethical people inhabiting the earth. And because our modern day society is filled with people who have chosen to go along with the Bully Culture by doing wrongful, hateful things instead of righteous, loving things, they make other people needy by being themselves greedy. Thusly, the odds are overwhelming that a dream weaver will be in the wrong place, at the wrong time, amongst the wrong people, and so he will be unable to manifest his destiny from potential into reality.

 Does this mean that you will never ever be able to harvest what you plant since there will always and forever be people in your way? No! Due to the continual existence of probability within the cosmos one may fulfill one's own destiny. Perhaps in your own lifetime, if the Bully Culture Regime — the few oppressors who are lording their "lucky-have-it-all" over the "oppressed many unable to earn can't-have-any-of-it" — gets overthrown. Then yes! You will, "Reap what you sow" if you are willing to do what is necessary. Meanwhile, if you have spent your entire existence tirelessly, "starting over" because all of your dreams have either exploded or imploded don't blame the victim who happens to be you, or call your self a loser. Take solace in knowing that YOU WILL NOT REAP WHAT YOU SOW FOR SEEDS IN A BULLY CULTURE DO NOT GROW

 "BE FRUITFUL AND MULTIPLY"
  Do you know what the world's biggest problem is? If we solved it we woulda, shoulda, coulda no longer have global warming, air, water, and land pollution, diminishing minerals, endangered plants, extinct animals, and exploited human resources that have brought about worldwide poverty, sickness, and loneliness to name a few. The world's biggest problem is...Drum roll please...OVERPOPULATION. There are too many pee-poo holes (peoples) on the earth. People regulate animal populations that are too high in number to sustain the earth's ecosystem. So why don't we regulate our own out of control population growth? With so much overcrowding, even the most conscientious parents cannot offer a child what is necessary for it to be able to grow up into a well adjusted human being. Yet so many people are having babies. Even Eagles know not to bare young in a habitat that cannot support it. So why do we humans, who are supposed to be the most intelligent species on the planet, not even know what a birdbrain knows?

 To answer the overpopulation growth question let's observe the clergy bully. The clergy bully monetarily exploits people by instigating and perpetuating the religious myth of, "Be fruitful and multiply". The clergy bully knows that human overpopulation is both the cause and the effect of so many worldly ills. But the clergy bully also knows that the more children there are in the religious community the bigger the clergy bully's congregation is going to be, and thus the more cash flow is going to get generated to support his money making religious empire. And so the clergy bully, being the clever bully that he is, will preach the religious myth of, "Be fruitful and multiply" so that he can cloak his blind, deaf, and dumb avarice as nothing more and nothing less than God's commandment that people replenish themselves. If he is a Jewish clergy bully he will give sermons to the members of his synagogue that Hashem (Jewish God) commands that the Jews propagate an unlimited amount of children to replenish the Jews who were murdered in the Holocausts. If he is a Christian clergy bully he will give sermons to the members of his church that Christ commands the Christians to propagate an unlimited amount of children to replenish the missionaries who were lost trying to spread the word of Christ. If he is a Moslem clergy bully he will tell the members of his mosque that Allah commands the Moslems to propagate an unlimited amount of children to replenish the martyrs that were killed in God's Jihad – holy wars, and so on and so forth. The clergy bully does this even though the clergy bully's very own Bible tells us that the only people that God ever commanded to, "Be fruitful and multiply" were Adam and Eve. Yet neither of them were Jewish, Christian, Moslem, or of any other religious affiliations. They were simply the father and mother o f all of humanity.

  The clergy bully's religious myth of, "Be fruitful and multiply" coupled with the Bully Culture's materialistic value system also spells disaster for the up and coming g enerations in another way. David Ricardo's Iron Law of Wa ges asserts that, "The higher the population the lower th e standard of living". Its economic principle can also be applied to sociology. The quality of one's offspring wil l decrease if the quantity of one's offspring increases.
This will be due to the lack of upbringing that each chil d will get from his caretakers as a result of less time, energy, or money being available to each child by each ca regiver. Families that are living in households that are overcrowded that embrace "materialism" as a way of life will inadvertently deprive their youngsters of meaningful interpersonal relationships while at same token overindu lging their youngsters with meaningless material possessi ons. And so, their children will abandon the notion of ma turing into humanitarians who strive to make the world a better place. They will be too busy exploiting instead of contributing. Families that are living in households tha t are overcrowded that are making an all out effort to ke ep up with the "Ritchies" will take out its frustration a t not being able to on the kids by having the parents vic ariously live through them. The burden of such parental a pproval will persuade the child, who is unable to fulfill his parents' wishes, to grow up to be a people pleasing overachieving victim; and the child, who is able to satis fy his parent's desires, will be persuaded to grow up to be a spoiled rotten underachieving bully. The DOCILE vict im child and the STUPID bully child are precisely what th e clergy bully prays for, and exactly what the Bully Cult ure preys upon. That being the scenario, it behooves us c ommon folk to stop sanctioning the clergy bully's religio us myth that it is our God given duty, as sexually active adults, to rapidly reproduce no matter how socioeconomic ally lacking the environmental conditions are that await our offspring as a result of human overpopulation.

ful and multiply" does NOT mean be spoiled and reproduce in the manner of exponentiation as the clergy bully in th e name of religion hopes that you will believe. Reproduci ng in such a manner means that we ought to breed like ins ects do for it entails raising a number to a certain powe r. So for instance, if two people who are mates have five children, by the next generation they will have a total of twenty-five grandchildren. That's five to the power of two or five times five. They will have one hundred and t wenty five great grandchildren if their children continue to breed via exponentiation. That's five to the power of three or five times five times five, and so on and so fo rth. It makes sense for insects to procreate by way of ex ponentiation as they are on the bottom of the food chain and so many predators kill them for food. Thusly, to ensu re the overall survival of their species insects have to give birth to hundreds of offspring. However, since we ar e on top of the food chain, we have few if any enemies th at will devour us. Thusly, we do not have to replace ours elves so quickly. And so breeding like insects do is not necessary for our species survival. Hence, it makes no se nse for people to have ten children per family unit since billions of humanoids occupy the planet already. However the numbers of animals, plants, and minerals on our plan et are rapidly dwindling because our over population grow th encroaches upon their habitats needlessly putting them onto the endangered species list and greedily poaches th em into extinction.

ecause the QUALITY of one's offspring takes precedence ov er the QUANTITY of offspring that one can bring into the world. Notice the context of the phrase, "Be fruitful and According to the English dictionary one definition of th e word "fruitful" is "producing good results, beneficial" (See Random House Webster's College Dictionary second ed

" means to raise children in such a way as to bring benef it to the world and to them as well. How might parents do that?

   Let's start with unplanned pregnancies. Women's Liberation is a bust (no pun intended). If you are a woman, don't make it worse by having offspring as an accidental birth. The freedom to have sexual intercourse out of wedlock, more often than not, comes with the price of desperately trying to get a man to love you and be committed to your baby who is not bound by any legal marriage contract. Albeit, men ought to share in the burden of raising children if they happen to be the biological father, all too often they don't. The child is innocent. He or she was given to you out of a random natural process of selection. So it is not the child's fault that it was born to you. . Therefore, don't abandon the child by refusing to take care of it physically, emotionally, mentally, and spiritually. Also, don't resent the child by blaming him or her for depriving you of not having a man in your life. A child deserves to have a mother and a father. It does not deserve to have neither.

 Those who do plan to have children. Know that the child that you have given birth to does not belong to you. He or she is on loan to you from God. Therefore, the child is precious beyond measure. A child is much more than the body that he or she occupies. A child's essence comes from its cosmic parent, God, itself. Thusly, your child is a divine being. Hence, you have to do more than just breed and feed it. LOVE your child. Accept its uniqueness. It may or may not be like you. So don't try to mold it to mimic your likeness. Let it go according to its own individual way. Give GUIDANCE to your child. Instruct your child to observe the rules that preserve its existence. They are the moral and ethical codes of conduct that God's Natural Order of Things is composed of. Pay attention to your child's innate talents so that it can fulfill what God put it down on this earth to do. By fulfilling his or her own destiny, the child will help others fulfill theirs and thereby make the world a better place for every being and every thing. The Bully Culture does not care about your child. It exploits it for its own sick self -serving purpose. The Bully Culture does not care if your child becomes a suicide or homicide victim statistic, or if it becomes a bully addict, or if it turns into a mediocre bystander/onlooker. Take care of your child. Protect your child from BULLYING. Be prepared to sacrifice everything and anything you have to in order to do so. It will be well worth it. For your flesh and your blood and God's spirit reside within its one of a kind soul.
 Last but not least, notice the words "and multiply". What do you think they really mean? They mean to reproduce in order to replace our selves. Multiplying allows us to do that. A male and a f emale replace themselves through fornication that conceiv es one male and one female baby. The two children then gr ow up to become adults who mate with two other adults and each has two children, and so on and so forth. Reproduct

After all, it is the human species that lies on top of the food cha in. Isn't it? However, the human race is just as much a p art of the ecosystem as the earth's elements, minerals, p lants, and animals are. Therefore, no matter how great or how small, all of God's creatures are dependent upon one another for each others' survival. So, if the earth' s food and water runs out, we, too, shall perish. Thus, w e are no more important and no less significant to God th an a rock, a weed, or an insect. For God's Natural Order of Things dictates that we are all equal in God's eyes. T his means that, we are only supposed to kill out of self- preservation.

After all, the clergy bully's religion is the one and only true religion. Isn't it? The clergy bully instructs his congregation to believe that his brand of religion is the one and only true religion s o that all will flock to his congregation, not some other clergy bully's, so that he can receive the most charity donations to exploit for his own private, selfish ends. H owever, by preaching that some people are loved more by G od than others, the clergy bully also compels people to p hysically kill and psychologically murder those who belie ve differently.
< br> Ironically, both the Jews and the Nazis share this same mentality. Accordi ng to Judaism, "The Jews are God's chosen people". Thus,

God told the Jewish People that the land that the Canaan ites were occupying was the Holy land of Israel. Hence, t he Jewish People according to God's commandment obliterat ed the seven nations of Canaan. The only Canaanites who e scaped death were those who immigrated — fled from their homeland Israel, and those who were subjugated — made int o slaves of the Jewish People. According to the White Sup remacy movement, "The Aryan Race is the chosen people of God". Hence, those who are NOT blue eyed, blond haired, a nd white skinned are to be exterminated from the face of the earth. Thus, during World War II, genocide was commit ted against six million Jews by the leader of the Neo Naz i regime, Adolph Hitler. The only Jews who escaped death were those who immigrated — fled from their homeland Germ any, and those who were subjugated — made into slaves for ced to commit treason against their own people.

<fo nt face="'Times New Roman', Times, serif" color="#FFFFFF" class="size18 TimesRoman18">   Some define Karma as caus e and effect. What one causes to happen in one's present life affects the outcome of one's future life. And so tho se people who lived out their previous incarnation in a m eritorious way are reincarnated into a life of fortune. W hereas, those people who lived out their previous incarna tion in a despicable manner are reincarnated into a life of misfortune. Sounds simple enough! Well, over the last half century that I have been alive on this earth, I have observed something quite different. The most miserable, miserly, petty, haughty, moronic mean people that I have ever met happen to be both the fortunate ones, and the un fortunate ones. The most happy, generous, noble, humble, smart, nice people that I have ever met are the rare bree d of individuals that occupy this earth who CHOOSE to be such. So, the ones who live on Easy Street are no more de serving than the one's who reside on the Hard School of K nocks Avenue are undeserving.
<div style

="font-size: 1px; line-height: 1px;">
   If there is any merit to Karma at all, then how do we explain why some stars after they die expand benevolently into supernovas, some contract into malevolent black holes, some explode into nurseries for new starlets to be born, and some implode into lone white dwarfs? Are we to believe that, as with people, some stars are more worthy and some stars are less worthy than others? There is evidence that reincarnation does exist. The caterpillar transforms into a butterfly. Everything on planet earth recycles itself. Science already knows that matter transforms into energy and energy transforms into matter. Yet neither matter nor energy gets lost in the transmission. Water is a great example of something that changes its form often. It goes from a gas (clouds) to a liquid (rain droplets) to a solid (ice crystals) as it recycles itself along its cyclic journey around the globe. Recycling matter and energy is part of God's Natural Order of Things for the most efficient and proficient way for God to manage the Cosmos is for the Universe to always be re-use-able by never being wasted.

 Reincarnation has to do with the recycling of energy and matter, which is an evolutionary process. Evolution has to do with how God's creations adapt to the randomly ever-changing environments in which they live. Some random occurrences are life-changing events that are beyond one's control, such as death. No one can prevent one's own death. Another is the random event of birth that follows one's own death. No one can predict the various variables that will exist upon one's re-entry into a new life anymore then one can predict the path that a falling star will take to its crash landing on earth's terrain once its trajectory has penetrated the earth's atmosphere. And so one's birth placement will be as random as the conception of a random male sperm entering a random female egg. That being the case, no one will be able to control what gender one will be at the embryo's conception, which developing fetus one will inhabit, what set of genes one will have at birth, who one's parents will be, where one will live, etc.

   There is a certain amount of randomness to Reincarnation. Therefore, those who are the pretty people — the so-called "blessed ones" by the All Loving God — are only such since they were born lucky. Ditto for the not so pretty people — the so-called "cursed ones" by the All Loving Go d — but only because they were born unlucky. Such is the wheel of fortune — the random circle of life. In this reg ard, reincarnation is nothing more and nothing less than blind, deaf, and dumb luck!!! For, reincarnation does not determine whether or not one is worthy or unworthy of on e's station in life as the clergy bully hopes that you wi ll believe.

</ font> The clergy bully will argue that life cannot be random otherwise it has no pur pose. But he is mistaken! For reincarnation also has to d o with how we choose to adjust to our randomly ever-chang ing environment. What gives our life meaning is how we ex ercise our God given free will whenever and wherever we a re presented with a choice. Every personal life decision that we make determines who we once were, who we are now, and who we are going to be. In other words, it is comple tely and totally up to us, who we ultimately and absolute ly are. To put it another way, though God CREATED us, it is we, who MAKE ourselves.

 The Cr eator created all of creation out of LOVE. Our own organi sm's instinctual act to preserve itself — heal itself — i s an expression of God's love. . God designed us to be co nceived in, born out of, and raised up by our parents' lo ve. Even death serves love by recycling life. Love is tha t which binds the universe together. This is why the word universe is made up of the prefix — uni and the word — v erse. Love sustains the universe by maintaining a state o f equilibrium throughout the cosmos. Such involves the re ciprocity — the give and the take — between the opposite forces — expansion and contraction, lightness and darknes s, emptiness and fullness, destruction and construction, etc., of the universe.

 This give and take establishes the INTERDEPENDENT relationship that all beings and all things share with each other and one another. Our world manifests this mutually dependent rela tionship between living things and living beings as the e arth's ecosystem and as the human being's socioeconomic c ivilization, which requires that we abide by the cosmic c odes of conduct of the universe — humane morals and busin ess ethics. In other words, if human beings are to surviv e we must preserve our society by loving one another and thereby cooperating with each other. That being said, it is we, not God, who passes judgment upon ourselves by exe rcising our freedom of choice to either live by or defy G od's Natural Order of Things, which is the inter reliance of all beings and all things upon each other so that one another can coexist.

 We have no control over the sort of existence that the Lord bestows upon us due to the randomness of the recycling of our souls. In any and every life cycle that we journey through, by way of random birth placement, we are given a particular set of parents, specific intellectual faculties, certain personality traits and character attributes, and the one corporeal body that we will inhabit for the duration of that life span. Such is what makes up the mental, emotional, and physical components of our selves.

   However, what we do have control over is how we are going to respond/react — adjust — to these and other random happenings that are beyond our control. Such is our attitude/approach — our spiritual self towards the hand that we have been dealt. That being said, it is we who choose how we are going to live through every life span that the universe gives us. Are we going to do our best with what we do have to work with (act righteously), or not (act wickedly)? Whatever we choose to develop ourselves into from incarnation to incarnation is what makes or breaks us. If we make it a habit to be a productive versus a destructive member of the cosmos by making the decision to love instead of hate ourselves and others, and thereby better ourselves and others throughout our life times, then we reward versus punish our own selves with inner peace and everlasting happiness — heaven — instead of outer strife and eternal misery — hell. What can be more purposeful than that?!

THE ALL POWERFUL GOD   Another example of how the clergy bully takes the Godliness out of God is by the way in which he defines God as being an All Powerful Deity. In order to be able to bend his own religious rules, that he sets up for his congregation to follow, the clergy bully preaches that God is All Powerful, by defining the Creator as being able to both make and break the Laws that govern ITS own creation. By doing so, the cler gy bully can get away with being the hypocrite that he really is who asks for charitable donations to be given by his God fearing religious community so that he can hoard the alms all to himself.

 If the clergy bully were speaking the gospel truth then God can override ITSELF. But God cannot. For what defines God is that THE CREATOR IS THE CREATION AND THE CREATION IS THE CREATOR. Thus, God is the Laws that govern the Natural Order of Things and the Laws that govern the Natural Order of Things are God. So while God is All Powerful at the same token God is NOT All Powerful. This is a paradox, which explains why God is eternal and how the cosmos has no beginning and no end. God is the singularity — the void of nothingness, the duality — time and space, and the plurality — the multiple universes of energy and matter. Therefore, if God was able to alter God's own Laws for even an instant, both the creation and the Creator will no longer exist.

 Since the Creator and the Laws that govern creation is one and the same thing, there is only one formula that can bring life into being. It is that, in order for there to be life there has to be death. In scientific terms it means that matter must consume energy and energy must consume matter. Such is the circle of life. It might seem cruel for the Creator to create creation in such a manner. Why must one living thing devour another living thing in order to go on living itself? Well, if there was another way, God being a compassionate Deity, ought to have set it into motion. But God has not for there is no other way. This is the one and only way that the Creator and the creation can co-exist. The clergy bully's very own Bible symbolically defines God as a burning bush that consumes itself, yet does not get consumed. God cannot change the Laws that govern ITSELF. Thus, God's Laws of creation are permanently fixed for they are the only reality that exists for they are God, ITSELF. Hence, in order for Creation to go on existing God's Laws of creation cannot be fickle.

 Another way, in which the clergy bully gets his followers to believe in his skewed definition of the All Powerful God, is by preaching that God can temporarily override God's own Laws at will. Hypothetically speaking this is what is referred to as "divine miracles" otherwise known as "supernatural events". The word "supernatural" is a placeho lder the clergy bully uses for not being able to comprehend, understand, or know why something actually does happen. One example of a so-called supernatural occurrence is people who cheat death. People who dodge the "death" bullet are regarded by the clergy bully as God's "wake up" call that one ought to do something noble with one's life as it is not that individual's time or place to die. As if death as beholden to an appointed time or place of coming! What actually explains such phenomenon is not "why" people cheat death, but "how" people cheat death. Due to extraordinary circumstances beyond one's control one is spared from dying. Extraordinary is not to be confused with supernatural. The word extraordinary, means uncommon not unnatural. Extraordinary events regarding death are certain variables that happen that do not ordinarily occur that interfere with what causes death.

 The following are real life scenarios that illustrate instances in which I, myself, have cheated death:

 Example #1:

 Once while I was walking through a wilderness park I got trapped alongside one of its cliffs. I was climbing down a mountain when it became too slippery for me to continue my descent. So I decided I better retrace my steps. But when I made the effort to climb back up the mountain's slanted bank, its loose dirt prevented me from being able to get any firm footing. So to keep myself from falling off of its precipice, I slowly and carefully sat myself down where I was and wedged my left foot and my left hand against a rock wall that was near me. Directly in front of and below me was about a seventy-foot drop into a ravine. It was full of many large boulders. I was all, alone. There was no one to help me. Initially, I did not know what to do. Eventually out of desperation I did the only thing I was able to do. I took a chance. Right above my head imbedded in the slippery slope alongside the mountain was one, lone weed. It was a small weed. It was a completely charred black weed due to a previous forest fire. So I doubted that its roots were secure in the soil. The odds were great that I was going to plummet to my death. Nevertheless, it was my one and only hope. So I grabbed onto the weed with my right hand and I pulled. I had to put all of my body weight into the pull in order to scamper back up the treacherous slope. Well, here I am, still alive thanks t o that stubborn weed! Apparently, inspire of its limbs having been totally scorched by a forest fire, its roots remained unscathed. I did not die because that darned weed really lived up to its name! My near death experience did give me a personality quirk, though. I refuse to pull any weeds out of any garden for the rest of my life.

 Example #2:

 When I was nine years of age, I came down with the flu. I had contracted the typical fever and chills that accompany its virus. My fevered temperature was one hundred and one degrees Fahrenheit. My father gave me some aspirin to reduce it. But instead of the medicine bringing my temperature down, it drove it up to one hundred and four degrees Fahrenheit and rising. I started hallucinating from my feverish condition and began crying from the pain my head was causing my body. Upon hearing my cries, my dad went to the kitchen cupboard to get me more aspirin. But as he reached down into the aspirin bottle he noticed that the pills inside of it were not aspirin. They were my mom's diet pills that she had decided to store in an empty aspirin bottle. Immediately, my father called the emergency room of the nearest hospital. As I lay in bed I overheard my dad's conversation with the emergency room doctor. The physician was telling my father that I had to be rushed at once to the hospital to have my stomach pumped or I would die. But before my father even had the chance to hang up the phone, gather me into his arms, and drive me to the medical facility, I threw my head over the side of my bed and vomited. Shortly afterwards, my fever was gone and I was fine. I did not die because I have a really smart immune system.

 Example #3:
  One day a neighborhood bully, named JULIE HILDABRAND, invited me to go swimming with her in her swimming pool. While we were splashing around having fun she announced that she was going to drown me. Before I could get out of the pool, she put both of her hands on top of my head, pushed me under the water, and held my smaller body down with her bigger body. A second before my lungs w ere about to burst, she suddenly let me go. I broke the w ater's surface gagging for some much needed air and cough ing up lots of unwanted water. In that moment I saw the b ully's older sister walking by. If not for her impeccable timing of sabotaging her younger sister's plan to not ge t caught while murdering me, I would not be alive today.

 the clergy bully usurps Godlike status over others. Inst violent ultimatums. Throughout human history, those who rose to power over an empire were the ones who decided wh

, and so they wiped out the seven nations of the Canaanit es who dwelled in the land of Israel because they worship ped idols — many gods. Ironically, later in history, the Jews were massacred en masse by the brutal Cossacks who w ere Christian zealots since they believe in a Polytheisti c God — the Christ also known as the Trinity of the Fathe r, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. After that, the Christian s and the Moslems fought over which religion ought to pre vail in the Provinces that they conquered, and so on and so forth.

That instructional manual is the blueprint of all of creation. Care to take a guess as to where God might store ITS All Knowing Divine program? Well just as the inventor includes an instructional manual of his invention along with the invention itself, God puts our instructional manual within our very being. There is one thing that all of the religions of the earth agree upon, and that is that the Creator did create Creation. That makes us all children of the Lord. So just like our human parents conceived and gave birth to us by each one giving us half of their own genetic material, how much the more so has God, our one cosmic parent, given us life by giving each one of us a piece of ITSELF!
