I love how instead of drawing out more power and transforming to win, he instead concentrates on his own movements and actions and improves the way he fights. This almost seems like a better version of the actual Dragon Ball franchise.

This guy legitimately needs a team to help him.
The story has sooo much potential but there are some glaring flaws, namely:

YA because KOSHO is not using our universe rules, since when can KI not be detected ever? Unless he is using GOD's KI, which means BEERUS would have TAUGHT GOKU and so GOHAN should know it by now.

Those lines from Kosho were excellent and would be exactly what a hardened Saiyan warrior would say.

If you're an ex-soldier, that line would make you wish you could reenlist. Maybe that's why I like saiyan, because I can resonate with their lifestyle.

This whole series and the work put into it is just confirmation that the fans care more about the DB franchise than Akira does... this is so much better than that DBS shit. Give this guy even half the budget DBS is receiving and he would humiliate those fools... just as he is already doing with a fraction of their budget.

You killed it yet again Mell! Astounding work on the special effects. I noticed all the frames that went into the particles of energy growth. That detail is what makes you so great ^__^

I think Kosho just took the perfect SSJ4 transformation O:

You can tell by Gohan's reaction that he was able to detect Kosho's ki when he got up. He just couldn't pin point exactly where Kosho was because his ki was so great, so emence that it felt as if he was everywhere at once.

There's no intro because this is still episode 5. He splits the episodes into 3 parts now so we don't have to wait as long for episodes to drop there have always been perfect/imperfect forms of the ssj transformations. Take for example, the Super SSJ (cell saga) where vegetal thought he ascended to ssj2 but it was really just another bump in ssj1.

Exactly, Vegeta was able to increase his power by 50%. But in this case, Perfect SSJ4 raises their power by 40%, at least for Kosho...

I respect people's opinions on Super compared to this, but the THIS IS BETTER THAN SUPER shit is getting annoying.

+That Guy I don't see how him knowing a technique that scrambles and fluctuates his power is a plot hole if you hadn't noticed these saiyan are ultimate they've tapped into powers the z fighters have not.

+TheMeriot1 that to me sounds like exactly the kind of thing a pure breed saian would learn

THIS..is the real DB series, forget super..This carries real weight and a real worthy story behind it instead of that care free Super crap. This should have been the next Dragon Ball.

It can be realistic, these guys are Space Pirates From a ultimate universe that is linear to ours like Trunks for example, KOSHO sorta resemble Vegeta just look at his hair, like a older Balder Version. The only plot hole is he is using KI that can't be detected.

Is that SSJ5 or somewhere inbetween SSJ4 and 5? His fur was white but the hair was still yellow

Ah I see, makes sense. Looking at it logically though I suppose its the same, basically Enhanced SSJ4, but not exactly a whole new form. Meaning Gohan still has a fighting chance , though he may have to dip into his killer instinct, which I think is what Kosho actually wants.

Reply • 1

Skill (DTR) 1 day ago (edited)

+speedfreak Daniel SSJ5 is when you go SSJ3 as a SSJ4 (hence the design), it's 400x SSJ4. But it drains extremely fucking fast if not controlled properly... In DBAF, when Goku first ever reached SSJ5, he immediately powered down to base form from the massive drain.
